1979 HATTER

Mission Mountain Wood Band, back again and more popular than ever, plays an outdoor concert under Hulley Tower in early fall.

Walking through the front doors of the commons during any given meal was often like stepping into Big Daddy's or Nichol's Alley. W.H.A.T. played the driving disco beats that marked the music of our times. For many, the dancing, lights, and fashions of disco were the very essence of survival. They thrived on it. But for those special laid-back times when A Taste of Honey or Village People just didn't fit the bill, both the disco and non-disco buffs tuned in the peaceful, more mellow music of Billy Joel or the campus favorite Mission Mountain Wood Band. Still, there was another artist whose records held a special place in those "Peaches" album crates — that "good ol' southern boy" who hosted Saturday Night Live, broken leg and all. He sang of sailors, cheeseburgers, and margaritas — all the things college kids relate to. He also sang of the changes in latitudes . . . in attitudes . . . that nothing remains quite the same. Jimmy Buffet sang about it; the Stetson community lived it.

Take A Look Around ...

Changes In

Latitudes...

Paint Brushes, Ladders, &

The first day of school was about as calamitous and frenzied as ever. Freshmen, of course, suffered the usual ailments of paranoia, hysteria, apprehension, and were generally stricken with mild to severe cases of panic. Nothing unusual.

Upperclassmen moved their junk back into the dorms, but for some reason, it didn't seem to take as long this year. They'd finally found that you really didn't need all ten stuffed animals, the extra garbage can, and the spare chess set. The sense of security that comes along with being an upperclassman guided them through the first week with minimal anguish. Again, nothing unusual.

Parties, dances, and more parties at the frats filled those first nights back. Freshmen just couldn't seem to find the frats in the first place, but had an even harder time finding their way back to the dorm afterwards. On the whole, the school year was off to its usual start; nothing terribly unusual or out of the ordinary.

Then the dust began to settle. There was time to look around at what was really going on at Stetson — a look around campus, a peek through a closed door, the door opens wider and eyes opened wider to some very definite changes — nothing terribly unusual . . . it was something especially unusual and quite extraordinary!

Flagler Hall: a luxurious, plush renovation not to mention a $9000 couch in the Office of Admissions. Elizabeth Hall: under reconstruction. Mini-Sub: repainted and furnished. Also under construction: a new game room to be opened in January. New landscaping . . . ladders and lumber were everywhere . . . it was a time of new directions and changes in latitudes.

ABOVE: Opening doors in Elizabeth Hall reveals hidden changes much like the changes taking place all over campus. The interior of this office is but a microcosm of the macrocosm. The Stetson Community, in physical appearance, new personalities, and general attitudes, is in for many changes. RIGHT: The President's home is a contrast and yet a standard for all the changes in the campus' appearance this year.

Lumber = Campus Changes

...Bring Changes

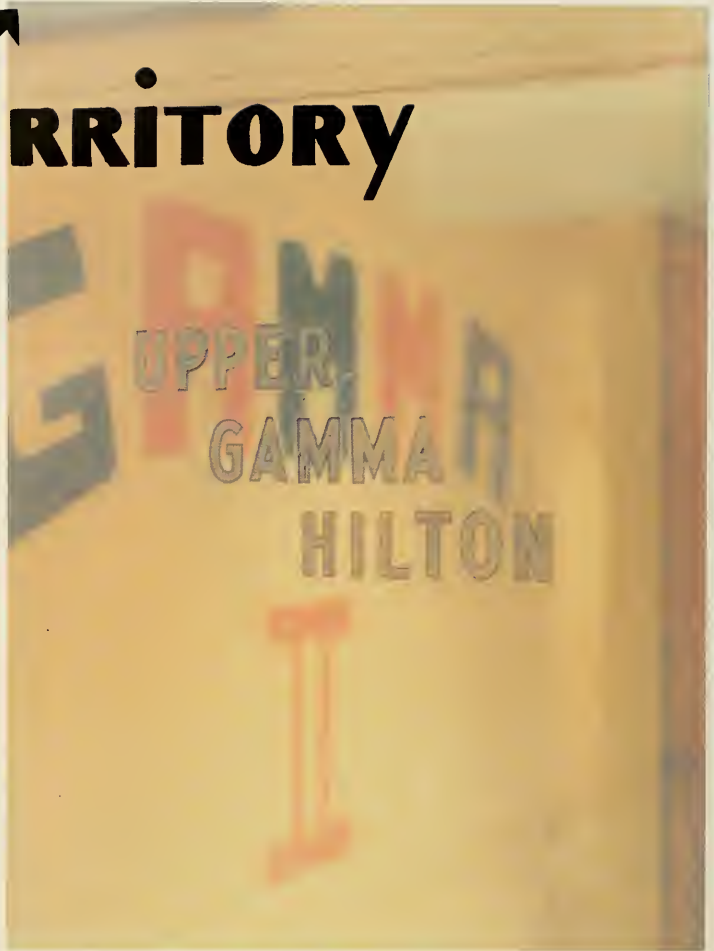

In Attitudes!

TERRITORY

The physical appearance of the campus was not the only thing to change. Personalities changed and new administrators brought new life and energy. Kemper Smith, Director of Residential Life, introduced the concept of Territoriality to the campus. This environmental concept acted as a catalyst for the many attitude changes in the student body and administration. Territoriality was designed to give students a sense of personal belonging, a chance to say, "This is my place." Every student was given the chance to order two gallons of paint; one thing lead to another and dorm rooms transformed into showcases for students artistic and creative urges.

There seemed to be a direct correlation between the spirit found in dorm life and the attitude changes all over campus; Greek enrollment was higher than ever, as was participation in the Blood Drive, soccer games, Greenfeather week, and inter-dorm activities.

RIGHT: Peggy Pruett's territory reflects the attitude found throughout the student body; it's something worth smiling about.

FACULTY

Dr. Pope A. Duncan, president of Stetson University, has now completed one full academic year. Through all of the university's changes, in administration, in the physical plant, and in the attitudes of both students and faculty, Dr. Duncan has retained his position and good reputation as the head of the Stetson community.

As Duncan stated at the beginning of his first term, "The strength of Stetson lies in many things, among which are its nearly 100-year tradition of commitment to quality higher education, its loyal and competent faculty dedicated to the teaching enterprise, its supportive alumni scattered throughout the world, and its commitment to Christian values."

Homecoming

The 59th annual Stetson Homecoming was highlighted this year with Gene Cotton — country rock songwriter, also the Hatter basketball had a tremendous victory.

About 600 alumni attended this year viewing of the Art Exhibit of S. Tucker Cooke who graduate from Stetson in 1960 also to dedicate the portrait of J. Ollie Edmunds.

Gene Cotton brought many students to hear his mellow but light and easy music. Many students were surprised how country can make you feel so good.

Other events was the two-mile forum, ministered breakfast, tennis tournament. Plus the preview of "Kiss Me, Kate".

The Mad Hatter Ball was a blast with every swinging to disco and rock & roll. It was held at the Plaza Hotel in Daytona.

Singer-Songwriter Gene Cotton was the 1979 Homecoming Concert. He established himself through doing colleges and small circuits. He is now one of the nations finest songwriters and has produced albums of his own as well as other artists. He has appeared at Stetson many times before.

Oh, my friend, now that you're gone,
I must carry on.
I must live without your love,
Without your smile, without all those things that we had left to share.
I can't understand, it's so hard to bear.

Why did you have to leave?
Oh, it's hard for me to believe.
Oh, my friend, rest assured that I will endure.

Our friendship will always be,
As if you were only across the sea.

You know I'll always remember,
All those times together,
I'll always feel our loss,
But I'll know that there was a reason,
And I want you to know, that for every season,
That I see go by, I'll think of you,
and maybe wonder why.
But I'll know you're at peace and that I'll believe.
So take care my friend,
And know, that with you my heart always will be.

Look!

LOOK! Up in the cupola! Its a bird, its a plane, no its Superman! No you idiot, its not Superman, its SuperHatter! Yes, SuperHatter, strange visitor from a distant college, faster than the commons line, slightly more powerful than W.H.A.T., able to leap small buildings in a single bound, and who, disguised as Arnold Swardslinger, mild-mannered librarian at Stetson University, fights a never ending battle for truth, justice and a date with Marcia Hardtoget, beautiful work study student.

As we join our hero, he has just saved Deland from certain destruction in the hands of SuperHatter's arch enemy, Colonel Doorflinger, renegade R.O.T.C. officer and psychopathic leader of P.F.E.C., the Popular Front for the Elimination of Civilization. A small nuclear device plant in the bushes surrounding the famous Holler fountain was disarmed at the last minute by SuperHatter, when, thinking fast, he threw the box into the water to extinguish the fuse.

SuperHatter, dressed in his familiar green and white satin tights, wasted no time in flying off to find his true love, Marcia Hardtoget.

Meanwhile, really mean bad guy Timm Doorflinger is busy dreaming up new plans in his secret headquarters located 200 feet below the Hat Rack in an abandoned subway station. While his chubby blond mistress, Emmy Lou Airhead, floats in the pool, the second rate criminal mind plots his greatest scheme yet to destroy SuperHatter and gain control of Deland. "Ah yes my petunia," said Doorflinger, "in one dastardly blow I'll be rid of that Supertwit and Deland will be all mine! Think of the power, the wealth!" "Oh Timm," oozed the blond, "you're the greatest! But how can you stop SuperHatter?" "Elementary my fruitcup," uttered the Colonel, "there is only one possible thing which can stop SuperHatter, and thats a slice of Mano's pizza, with anchovies. All we've got to do is hang a slice around his neck, and he'll be helpless!" "Timmy, you're the meanest!" sighed Emmy Lou.

Not suspecting this terrible plot, mild mannered librarian Arnold Swardslinger is still trying to get a date with Marcia Hardtoget, who also works in the library. As Arnold casually walks by her desk, he purposely drops a book. "Oh, I'm sorry Marcia," he says, stooping to pick up the volume, "I didn't see you there. I was wondering what you're doing tonight? Maybe we could do something fun. I heard that the concert choir is rehearsing tonight?" "Drop dead Arnold," said Marcia pleasantly, "you know I find you a real drip." Dejectedly, Arnold turned away. If she only knew, he thought.

The next day Arnold finds a letter on his desk mysteriously addressed to SuperHatter. It said that if SuperHatter did not come to Timm Doorflinger's secret Headquarters within the hour, all of Deland would be destroyed. "Gee," he thought Arnold, "think of all those innocent people and Stetson students." With that, Arnold leapt into the nearby closet and became SuperHatter! SuperHatter flew out the library door, much to the surprise of the patrons. Arriving at the secret headquarters of the criminal, SuperHatter smashed through the locked curtain and entered the room. "Nice of you to come Superswift," cooed Doorflinger. "What is it this time, another small nuclear device?" asked SuperHatter, "you want to kill more innocent people?" "Yes SuperHatter," leered Doorflinger, "its another bomb, but not even you will be able to stop it in time! Heres a small present." With that the evil Colonel tossed our hero a small white package. SuperHatter opened it and saw a slice of Mano's pizza with anchovies! "Thanks Timm," said SuperHatter, "I did skip lunch. But where is the bomb?" "But thats supposed to make you helpless!" screamed the furious crime chief, "why aren't you in agony?" "Simple Colonel," mumbled SuperHatter between bites, "ever since they switched to frozen anchovies it just hasn't been the same." With that, SuperHatter grabbed the bad guy and flew off to save Deland and deliver his man to justice.

Every one of our 1979 graduates is special; every one has survived his years of work and maturing in the halls of Stetson University, going to classes which in some cases were bearable only because required and in some were delightful because desired. They did their best, withstood the test, and entered also into extracurricular activities of their choice.

The Forest of Arden and Holler Fountain, the Hat Rack and Mini SUB, Edmunds Center and Elizabeth Hall ail became familiar themes to 337 newcomers in the Fall of 1975. Quietly and happily for most, they flowed into the rhythm of the campus and, along the way, picked up some transfers from other colleges and grew in number. The music built, they became "involved." They learned — in the Stetson tradition — the crescendo of caring. They now number 370, who will be Hatter for life. Out of that number there are 30 young men and women whose song was heard just a trace louder and clearer than the rest: they will be listed in the national publication "Who's Who Among Students In American Universities and Colleges."

Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory have included the names of these students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and future potential. At least a B average was necessary to be eligible for this honor; to that was added their total achievements outside the classrooms. It was a difficult choice, but ultimately the records of these graduating seniors spoke for themselves.

We are proud to present the melody that comes from harmony — the finest all-around students in the Stetson University Class of 1979

SPORTS

Soccer

The Hats had positive thoughts for this Soccer season. A valuable asset to the Hatters this year was a team closeness, both on and off the field.

Coach Deckert instituted a completely new defense, The "Diamond D", which was a great asset to the team.

At this point in the season, the Hatters are looking good!!!

Hatter Basketball

The Stetson Hatters; directed by Head Coach Glenn Wilkes, Sr. with assisting coaches, Bill Alexander and James "Josh" Giles; are playing against the strongest competition in Stetson's history. To everyone's surprise they are giving each team they play a fantastic game whether they win or lose.

The Hatters this year show "a lot of team spirit." They always support each other and that can make the difference in close games. Coach Wilkes feels this year's Hatters have a very good shooting team. They move up and down the floor quickly, putting a lot of points on the board which makes for an exciting game. However, Coach Wilkes feels the team could improve their rebounding.

Coach Wilkes characterizes each player as having his own special quality which, when all combined, helps the team out in any given situation. Some characteristics of the team can be seen by:

"the terrific moves of senior Kevin Tucker; the shooting of junior Greg Guye; floor leadership of junior Glenn Wilkes; the hustle of junior Marty Shuette; and the improved play of sophomore Wilbur Montgomery. Some characteristics of the newcomers to the team include:

"the outside shooting ability of last year's red shirt, Dirk Ewing; the post play by transfers Corky Corzine and Walt Kaczmarek; and the freshmen enthusiasm of Derrick McDowel, Rick Roach, and Brad Weston". Although senior Kevin Tucker will be greatly missed next year, the rest of the team will be returning to make the Hatters very competitive. The Hatter basketball reputation has been steadily building and next year more teams are going to be watching Stetson closely as a team which will be difficult to beat.

Hatter Classic

The Hatter Classic this year was a small letdown to the basketball team in that they didn't win the Classic. However they did play two very good games and came very close. Friday night the Hats played Cleveland State losing by a small margin. Indiana State played East Carolina, easily winning. Saturday night Stetson and East Carolina paired up, Stetson leading the whole way and winning and Indiana State beat Cleveland State to win the Hatter Classic.

To add to the excitement of the game Stetson held the annual Miss Hatter Queen and court. There were many beautiful girls to choose from and the judging was tough.

The 1978-79 Hatter Classic Queen was Janet Hinkel, first runner up was Betty McAlpine. The other two members of the court were Shadon Davis and Susan Taylor.

Homecoming

The 1978-79 Homecoming was a gala event. Friday and Saturday were filled with one exciting activity after another. The Homecoming basketball game was one of the best games of the season. The Hatters met South Carolina and to use a familiar phrase "there was never a dull moment. At the second half the Hats had an 8 point lead over South Carolina. But through the rest of the game there was a constant battle for the lead with the Hats ahead one minute and then South Carolina leading the next. At the end of the game the score was tied and the game went into overtime. The Hats kept making points but every time Stetson made a basket, South Carolina also made a basket. At the end of the overtime the score was still tied.

Stetson finally won the game by four points in the second overtime as a breathless crowd watched on.

The Lady Hatters under the direction of Coach Kelly Jordan are "building a competitive basketball program." The basketball team of only three years is a young team, but has a good nucleus for the future.

Of the returning five starters for the Lady Hatters, three players had double digit scores last year. Brenda Elrod led with 14.7 points per average game last year. Dorothy Harris with 14.1 points and Debbie Toole with 13.9 average points. Debbie also led the team in rebounds; 11.7%.

The other two returnees were Jean Rouse with 8.5 points and Susie Gilmore with 4.3 points. Joining these five to make up the Women's Basketball team are:

sophomore: Trina Johnson, and six freshmen: Gail Carwise, Donna Johnson, Renee McCloud, Mary Gatins, Janet Hudson, and Tina Livingston.

Currently freshman Gail Carwise is leading scoring at 10.9 points per game. Brenda Elrod is close behind with 10.5 points per game.

Although from the scores the girls basketball team may not seem very promising Coach Jordan feels that the team is getting much needed experience this year which should make for a strong team in forthcoming years.

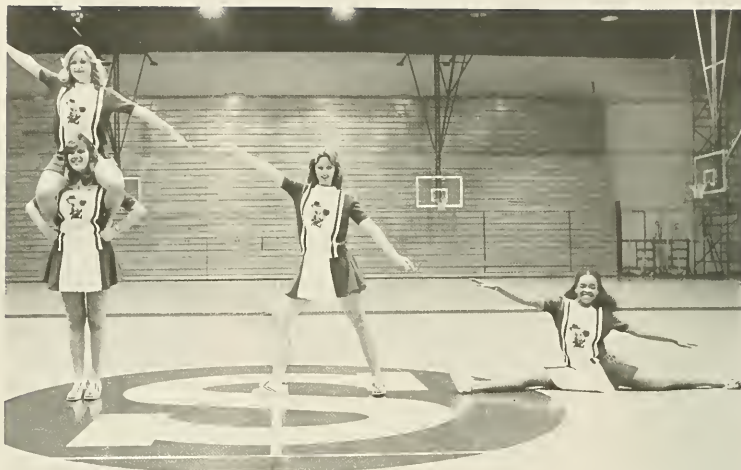

Coach Jordan feels Setson's Women's Basketball is a young team looking to the future and also to a development of competitive women's program at Setson.

Women's Basketball

The Stetson Cheerleaders sponsored by Jan Carey and lead by Senior Starr Hutchins and sophomore Susie Stroud, promoted a lot of spirit and enthusiasm for Stetson basketball. Their activities included sponsoring a carwash, having a spaghetti dinner and selling Hatter pens. With the money they earned the cheerleaders were able to accompany the basketball team to Las Vegas and Colorado. Stetson also has a J.V. cheerleading squad who cheer for Soccer and Women's basketball.

Stetson Golf Team

Stetson's Golf Team coached by Coach Weickel has outdone itself this year with many successes. The team had the talents of many returning players and with their skill and knowledge kept up the tradition of excellence. The practice out at Southridge Golf Course.

Girls Tennis

We should be very proud of our champion girls tennis team. Their excellent effort produces excellent results.

Mandy Parson, senior, was ranked 5th ladies' singles player in Canada. Parson finished second in the #1 position in the state and regional tournaments. Joan Krieder, a junior, is Stetson's #1 seed. She earned All-American honors last season.

Gail "Gigi" Garcia, sophomore, won her #3 singles position at the state, regional and small college national tournaments and ranked 40th in the nation for girls 18 singles.

Sue Overvold, junior, won the state and regional doubles championships with partner Joan Krieder. She also won the regional #4 position singles crown. Overvold and Krieder have become known as the threatening doubles team within Florida.

Mary Prebil, a sophomore, won her #5 spot at the state and national championships.

Patty Nagle, sophomore, won her #6 spot at the state and regional championships. Her second place finish at the national tournament insured Stetson's third place finish among all schools.

The six lead players will be pushed through the season by Jill Jinks, a senior; Mildred Cross, a sophomore; and Beth Schneider, a promising freshman.

Mens Tennis

This was a strong, successful year for the Stetson Mens Tennis Team. Seven lettermen returned, five of whom were seniors to the veteran team under the leadership of head tennis coach Ray Hussey. Coach Hussey has coached the Hatters to 19 winning seasons out of his 25 on record.

Casey Dagenhardt, senior, played No. 1 singles and doubles this year with a strong well rounded game. His good serves and excellent net quickness keep him ahead of his opponent.

Micky Nolan, senior, plays with good stamina and quick footing with an intense desire to win. He played No. 1 doubles last year.

Marc Seigel, senior, an excellent player uses knowledge of the game and strategy more than an overpowering ball to win.

Jim Butterfield, senior, is a tall rangy player with a good power stroke and excellent reach for net play.

Bill Stover, senior, probably the best all-around athlete on the squad, having power and speed to burn.

John Tucker, junior, seems to be the most improved player. He has strong serves but his biggest asset is his ability to take over the net.

Bill Ward, sophomore, is one of the steadiest performers on the team. He has great endurance and is on the court for hours every available day.

John Joiner, freshman, shows great potential and promise for the starting line up.

The varsity team played 19 games and traveled around the state this season during competition. Well done guys!

The baseball team headed by Coach Ward and assistant Coach Dunn and Coach Moyer did very well this year. Even though the Coaches didn't expect anything but the teams best they were very proud of Stetson's team. With excellent coaching and Stetson pride help the Hitting Hatters have a successful season.

Girls Volleyball

The Stetson University Girls Volleyball team is another shining group of athletes representing the Hatters. Many hours of practice and pain has produced a successful year. Coach Lewandoski is very happy to have finished his first year meeting his pre-season goal of winning more games than losing, 21-10, above .005%.

The team and the coach worked together producing excellent attitudes in both. With effort, enthusiasm and determination the team produced the best record in four years. However, with three graduating seniors: Pam Cole, Kathy Bevington, and Susie Gilmore; and only three players returning for next years' team, Coach Joe Lewandoski is looking for some super recruits in order for another winning season. The girls and coach are to be congratulated on their excellent performance this year.

To the right we see Susie Gilmore spiking against Jacksonville University. Below, Coach Lewandoski gives quick strategy to the players during a time out.

Stetson, this is your Yearbook, and it must reflect what is going on presently. It must represent your uniqueness and individuality.

Changes in attitudes? Changes in Latitudes? Yes, I feel there are changes here at Stetson and I have tried my best to represent these changes, in all the ways possible.

I must thank my photographers: Randy Brennen, Dave Moss, and Mike Koller for putting their all into their work. Special thanks to Bruce Dahlstaid for trying and succeeding in reproducing the colour for this book.

Many thanks to Ester Edelberg, Marilyn Wurth (who wrote our copy) Sherry Cook, Jill Jinks and Lynne Wilkenson for putting pictures and thoughts into an organized book. Thanks to Amy Speers (my business manager) for all the work she put in. My extra special thanks to Vicki Valek (my right-hand woman, sometimes left-hand too) for doing whatever I asked at whatever time.

Putting together the Yearbook wasn't at all easy or fun (sometimes-yes) but it was rewarding. It was an experience with a tremendous responsibility organizing people (friends) and their work. BUT I'm glad I did it.

Sincerley,
